STATUS OF FORCES AGREEMENT (SOFA)- Italy

1. A FEW WORDS ABOUT THIS BOOKLET

This pamphlet is intended to provide important facts about the Status of Forces Agreement (SOFA) between the United States and Italy. To protect yourself, you must know what rights you have as an American.

2. IMPORTANT FACTS TO KNOW ABOUT THE SOFA WITH ITALY

The legal status of Americans stationed in Italy is governed by special international agreements including the NATO Status of Forces Agreement. People stationed at overseas bases or posts must remember that Italian laws apply to them, too. Whether Italian authorities exercise their right of jurisdiction depends on the circumstances of the case. Below are circumstances in which you and/or your family may be subject to Italian laws.

1. Active duty members and their dependants are subject to Italian criminal law consequences including jail and substantial fines. Military members are still subject to the UCMJ. Dependents and civilians are subject to U.S. federal criminal law under the MEJA.
2. Value Added Tax (VAT) is a consumption tax on the market value added to a product or service at each stage of its manufacture or distribution. Military members are allowed a partial VAT exemption for automobile repair. The legal office in Italy has instructions on how to claim the VAT exemption for vehicle repairs.
3. Members stationed in Vicenza, Italy are entitled to more robust VAT exemption extending to additional goods and services.
